PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S FIRST APPEARANCE.—We shall never forget the story told us many years ago by Governor ... himself and ... in public life. He was, he said, ... fresh from the tailor's bench and the backwoods of Greeneville. The people had sent him to the Legislature to represent them, and ... awkward and diffident he had all the ... do the country some service and make a creditable figure. There was a great ... at the ... until one evening ... He got up ... and slithered away right and left about ... and sat down ... There was a member from the county of Knox by the name of Churchwell, father of one of the last members of Congress from Tennessee, and reputed to be a ... of the ... was the Secretary of the Treasury under Madison and Minister to Russia under Monroe. Churchwell was very aristocratic, considering his origin, with an amount of bombast and swell and ruffle about him, and represented the moneyed and landed interests, just as Johnson represented the poorer class. No sooner had the latter sat down than the former arose. His manner was more than offensive. He ... with great insolence against all tailors and especially the tailor from Greenville. What did they know about public land? His colleague might ... his coat but not his bill, of which he possessed as little interest as knowledge, for he was a mere bird of passage here to-day, and there to-morrow, and so on.

Johnson let him finish his violent harangue, and when he rose to reply the house and galleries were crowded with persons who had heard of the ... the debate, and came up to enjoy the sport. The first portion of his reply was confined altogether to argument. Johnson says that he stumbled along as best he could over the ground, and made perhaps rather a poor out of it. But by and by, he reached the personal part of the business, and here he felt at home. He warmed up with his theme as he proceeded, dissected the attire, manners, the appearance of Churchwell from his shirt collar to the toe of his boot, and finally raising his voice to its highest pitch of earnestness and vigor, concluded thus: It is true sir, that I am a tailor, and I here announce that I am a good tailor, and would spoil no man's garment as the gentleman would spoil this bill. I am also a bird of passage, and may be here to-day and there to-morrow. Yet I am as interested in the land I pass over as any stick in the mud who never flies at all. And finally sir, there is one comfort, tailor as I am, and bird of passage as I may be, that I take to my heart, and that is that I have lived to gaze into the face of an honest man and call him father, and that I do not owe my existence among men to the lust of an illicit bed! The shock was tremendous, and Churchwell was never able to run for office more. He never forgot Johnson or tried to wriggle out of the terrible difficulty, and disappeared soon after altogether from political life.

GEN. LEE AND HIS PHOTOGRAPH.—By the latest telegraphic dispatch from Richmond we learn the important fact that Gen. Lee has had his photograph taken in "six different attitudes, all very life like." We do not gather from the dispatch the exact character of these interesting pictures, but presume that they represent the rebel leader in the following attitudes: First—in a meditative mood—in the headquarters of General Scott. Here as colonel and chief of staff he is depicted resting upon his arm, listening to the plans of General Scott for the first campaign against the rebels. Second—a sneaking mood. In this, Lee having determined to become a traitor to his country is sneaking away from Washington. Third—the dignified attitude—receiving his commission from Jeff Davis as General of the rebel army. Fourth—in the chivalric mood—permitting the Union prisoners to be starved. It is said that he requested that Jeff Davis might be included in the picture, but his absence prevented a compliance with the General's wishes. Fifth—submission—the rebel leader surrendering to Gen. Grant. Sixth—and last position, General Lee's late entry into Richmond "cheered by the crowd including some officers of the Union army," as stated in the newspapers, and, at the same time, directing the United States officers to remove the colored sentinels from his private mansion, as they were quite offensive to his wife.—Providence Journal.

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 29, 1865

National Banks

The adherence of the people of this coast to a metallic currency has hitherto prevented National Banks from being generally established here We chose to make or rather to retain specie as the medium of exchange and having concluded to follow this course the inconvenience that would have resulted from the use of a greatly depreciated paper currency in connection with coin would have rendered National Banks practically useless with us until within quite a recent period Gold has now, however so far declined, with a prospect of a still further fall ere long that it may be well for our people to enquire whether, in view of the present need of money in this State it would not be proper to introduce National Banks, especially since they have been instituted in California and Nevada and since the difference between legal tender notes and coin would be counterbalanced by the cheaper rates of interest at which money could be had were these Banks established within reach It is true that the legal rate of interest with us, is but 12 per cent but every one knows that no usury law ever has been enacted, or ever will be devised, which ingenious avarice will not evade Every one too, is aware that money lenders in Oregon, almost always succeed in getting a higher premium on the money they loan than the law intends they shall take We do not stop to complain now about the insufficiency of our usury law, but are merely suggesting whether a way cannot be devised to hire money at cheaper rates than those at which it can now be had, and so get rid at the same time, of the necessity of having a usury law, and of the inconvenience of being subjected to its abuses

Every one will concede that the interests of the country will require that money may be obtained at the lowest possible rates This might not, perhaps correspond with the wishes of some who have money to dispose of, but it is the sole way to encourage enterprise and make the State rich Money, too, ought to be sufficiently abundant to enable all the business of a community to be easily carried on It ought also to be so readily obtainable that all new schemes even though they promise but small profits, may receive suitable encouragement. Now, all must acknowledge that Oregon has not enough of money Through this want and from other causes traceable to it almost every sort of business is in a drooping condition We have no very great amount of capital of our own, and if the work is to be done which is indispensable to the prosperity of this State, we shall be obliged to seek money somewhere else, to pay for it. Nor will it be other than futile to hope for the accomplishment of anything of value to the community, until money can be obtained more easily than now, and that at low rates In California and Nevada, where as with us, gold and silver are the rule, National Banks have been, to some extent established. The people there are also calling for more of them. If they supply a want there, they will be of similar use here At any rate the matter of introducing them is worthy of consideration.

Remarkably Honest.—The last "Democratic" State Convention held in California passed among others, the following resolution

Resolved, That we are opposed to all secret political organizations and societies as dangerous to the liberties of the people, and destructive of a republican form of government "

This resolution was passed in order to divert public attention from the movement which they who composed the convention were then engaged in. It is notorious that the "Sons of Liberty," "Knights of the Columbian Star," and other traitorous and murderous organizations then existed all over the country, that their head was at Richmond and that their object was to subvert the Government. The work of blood in Indiana was averted only by the timely information which the authorities received of the purpose of the conspirators. Several of the leading spirits in the plot are now under sentence of death The evidence against them was drawn mainly from their coadjutors, and is irrefragably strong At the time this California Convention passed the resolution above given, its members were engaged in organizing all over the State societies of the very character they pretended so to deprecate The object of the resolution was to lull suspicion and create a feeling of security among loyal men to the end that the assassinationists might get within their guard and deal them a deadly blow Their programme in this State was entirely similar. Vallandigham has confessed that he was a leader of the secret organization, Beriah Brown left in the Copperhead Press office conclusive proof that he had been engaged in spreading it, its members were proved guilty in Indiana, and finally President Lincoln was murdered by it Yet the Oregon Copperheads still deny that it ever existed

Hudson's Bay Claims.—Prior to the settlement of the Oregon boundary line in 1846 Vancouver Champoeg, Astoria and a few other places within that territory confirmed to the United States were occupied by the Hudson's Bay Company By the treaty of 1846 it was agreed that the United States should protect the Hudson's Bay Company in the enjoyment of their trade and of the rights of property within the Territory of Oregon On the 1st of July, 1863 a treaty was entered into by which our Government, in order to rid us of the incumbrance of this Company, agreed to pay them for their property at a fair valuation so that they would no longer hold any claims within our jurisdiction These shrewd John Bulls have now gone to work and assessed their claims at nearly $4,000,000 For the loss of an imaginary trade with the Indians they claim the modest sum of about $1 000 000 For a few old mud buildings at Walla Walla they demand about $100 000 The claims of the Puget Sound Agricultural Company are not less extraordinary They amount in the aggregate to $1,168 000 The property to-day with all the improvements made upon it during the past fifteen years is, perhaps, not worth a much greater sum It remains to be seen what our Government will pay to these exorbitant demands We incline to the opinion that if it pays twenty per cent of them the Companies will receive all they are entitled to If they get even so much as this they will be fortunate We have some offsets against John Bull which it may be worth while to consider in this connection

A Nemesis Wanted at Jacksonville. The slanderous calumniator of the Oregon Reporter whose delight it is "to make most hellish meals of good men's names" says that the late President Lincoln was a dissimulating villain The false accuser deserves to be scourged with a whip of scorpions through the nether regions to all eternity

Hon James D. Doty, Governor of Utah died on the 31 of the present month He was known as an accomplished and most estimable man

THE GRAND REVIEW AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23, 1865

Editor Oregonian:

This memorable morning opens fair after several days of thunder storms The city is early astir—engines are sprinkling the great Pennsylvania Avenue in preparation for the march of the grand army Just now I passed up to the Capitol and found the street cars stopped by the procession They will run no more to-day or until evening Passing round the Capitol the infantry were moving up A street Now the long line of infantry and cavalry passing out of Maryland Avenue having crossed Long Bridge Now they brought [illegible] Pennsylvania Avenue [illegible] escort squadron 1st Mass cavalry [illegible] A Flint commanding Massachusetts was first in the fight at Lexington first at Baltimore April 19th 1861 and it is fit that the [illegible] State which was the home of the Pilgrim Fathers should stand among the first in the day of [illegible] triumph Cavalry corps are passing Maj General Merritt, commanding

The worn Union veterans have a subdued yet cheerful look They remember the companions left behind I saw a man in the Armory Hospital (Ward K or 1) who enlisted only six months ago but had received a bullet in his breast in the grand charge under Sheridan He spoke sadly of his lost companions who fell around him To one he had said "we must hasten!" It was a moment of retreat The next moment a ball pierced his friend's head and he fell dead He spoke to another "we must run faster" They were constantly, without cessation loading and firing while retreating That moment a ball pierced his breast, and he fell. Such is war Another who was lying with a shattered limb, said that he thought no more of going into the fight than of going into a field to hoe corn He had no fear though the bullets fell around as wheat strewn from the sower's hand. A regiment were passing who had just come in, with knapsack haversack rifle and saber, blanket and canteen dismounted cavalry A few boys were in it, yet all were glad though weary The wounded looked wishfully upon them O! how they wounded long to get home They are all from the battles of March and April Most of them were wounded March 25, 30th or 31st, and April 1st and 2d Many had legs off, or arms shattered, and the upper bone taken out two, three or four inches Soon they hope to be transferred to the hospitals of the several States

9½ o'clock - Cavalry still passing Torn battle flags, bullet riddled, are borne aloft, mementos of many terrible contests, nobler shreds than the new and glittering flags that have just been raised Many of the battle flags are only shreds some have a few strings hanging to the staff

10 A M—Custar has passed, also, Davies Gen Devins first division is passing The Brigades pass twelve abreast, with a band following the staff of the General or Colonel commanding The officers and men are generally young or middle aged there are few men of gray hairs Gen Custar looks young with long flowing light hair Gen Devins looks even younger Those seem from my window small in stature The cavalry are apparently under rather than over middle stature. The horses are worn and thin generally, yet good animals It is 10 30 o'clock, and the cavalry are still passing—hosts upon hosts The eye and the brain grow heavy in gazing The impression of the exhaustless power of the nation in forces for the war is made upon the observer This impression will be made upon the Diplomatic Corps who are to lay witness the scene The comparisons are not shown but they evince fitness for service

10¾ The horse artillery are passing Heavier men and horses, two cannon abreast, two caissons, six horses and three riders to each piece The U S Infantry show better more neatly clad and kept. Guns glisten, armor bright, movement in perfect order.

11 o'clock.—The Ninth Corps are passing The Infantry march twenty four abreast, movement easy, cadence step light, springing movement Fifty fifers and fifty drummers are now passing, with the quick step inspired by such music. Three ambulances pass abreast The engineer corps had specimens of pontoon bridges, boats and planking

11 30—Still marching rapidly Col H B Situs Brigade is now passing At this rate, with the Third Division and Dwight's Division and the Fifth Corps, and Second Corps, to pass, the whole day will be consumed. It is a tiresome march for the soldiers Glad will they be to get free and go home

12 M.—The Artillery Brigade has just passed, four guns abreast or in rank Four caissons, also, with six soldiers on each caisson, six horses and three riders and a body of horsemen as guard The Fifth Corps follows, Maj Gen Chas Griffin commanding, attended by his staff of seventeen horsemen Then comes the band Brig Gen J H Chamberlain who commands the First Division, follows with his staff of fourteen Brevet Brig Gen A L Pearson commands the First Brigade, which is passing now to the tune of Auld Lang Syne Old John Brown has been played with a will also, the Battle Cry of Freedom

Yet sad thoughts cluster around this occasion A gentleman just remarked that more men had laid down their lives for the nation than we shall see to day and to morrow. They sleep in their graves, unmarked, unknown, awaiting the trump of the resurrection What a drama is life! How mighty its events! How grand its scenes! How tremendous its issues! Nations rise and fall upon its currents as ships upon the ocean waves Generations come and go bearing up the destinies of the human race while they pass away Yet the individual is lost as a mote in the mass.

12 30 o'clock —The Fire Zouaves, with their red caps and loose trousers are passing Next the brand brass come Next come the white cap Zouaves These companies were cheered often along the avenue We tried to get near the stand in front of the "White House, but the way was guarded, and we failed to see the President his Cabinet, Gen Grant, the Diplomatic Corps and the Members of Congress who were seated there

4 o clock, P. M —The grand pageant has passed, and the soldiers are about the streets in great numbers mingling with their friends and with citizens generally The day is still fine A good breeze keeps the air cool Multitudes visit the public buildings To morrow the army of Gen Sherman will pass in review

The Nation will unite in the motto of the day which was hung out on the Capitol The only National debt we never can pay, is the debt we owe to the National Union soldiers

Yours, T.

Foote's Letter to the President.—This extraordinary document will be found on the outside of this issue From its unaffected assurance and cool presumption it merits general attention Our persecuted patriot considers it an indelicate insinuation that he should be accused of treason He virtuously says that "no one more earnestly than he, desires the safety and happiness of the country he has labored so faithfully to serve" Wonderful self abnegation! In his banishment the ostracised one is now having an opportunity to meditate upon the proverbial ingratitude of republics. Like Alcibiades, he may hope that his patriotic virtues will soon be appreciated, and himself recalled His countrymen, however cannot just yet see how he has served the republic with so great faithfulness — In another place he says that "had been able to read President Lincoln's first inaugural in the in the light of future events, his course would have been very different" We think it possible No doubt his fellow traitors Davis and Breckinridge are of the same opinion Had they seen left it humiliation and an ignominious death to fore them, their action would have been something different Foote's letter reveals no new phases of character in the man but it brings prominently into view again some of the same old features which are so remarkably illustrative of his vulpecular craft and his inimitable manner of trying to make his vices sit like virtues upon him

The Secret Testimony. It will be perhaps but a short time until the country is favored with a recital of the secret testimony that has been elicited during the trial of the assassins Certainly we shall have it at the earliest moment when the ends of justice will not be in danger of being defeated by its publication The letters found on Booth's body have not yet been published in full It is said they will constitute the most thrilling part of the testimony.

Body Found. The body of Joseph B Robinson late a compositor in the Chronicle office at Victoria who lost his life recently by the upsetting of a boat near Esquimalt, has been recovered

Foote's Gold Pens.—We are using one of Foley's gold pens, placed in our hands some months ago by Mr McCormick and we pronounce it the best we have ever used The agent has received a new lot of these superior pens at the Franklin Book store

Letter from Grand Ronde

FOREST COVE, June 20, 1865

Editor Oregonian

A few weeks since I promised you a paragraph or so relative to the condition of things here and in adjoining localities and as every week brings its varied scenes and changes, I will add another line to those already forwarded you

The snow has now about all disappeared from the summit of the Blue Mountains and nature has put on her summer garb and seems smiling and prosperous The crops in the valley though somewhat late, are growing finely and the prospective yield of both vegetables and grain will be abundant Many individuals judging from the protracted lay of the snow in the mountains [illegible] and continuous and destructive [illegible] to say that during no former spring in the natural history of the valley, has vegetation been less injured by frost than the present season The weather now is very warm at Summerville

The roads over the Blue Mountains have been open for some time past and two lines of stages run daily through the valley — one from Umatilla Landing, passing on the west side and the other from Wallula via Walla Walla, and running on the east side. At the foot of the mountain on the west side of this valley and near the spot where the old emigrant road commences its ascent of the mountains, is situated the town of La Grande the county seat of this county and one of the business places of the country It contains many comparatively large business houses and in some respects has assumed the style of a city Drs. [illegible] Stockton and Paton have an extensive drug store in the place and are growing somewhat famous in the practice of the healing art which in this quack ridden country is advantage as not only to the traveling public but also the permanent settlers On the south east side of the valley and at the point where Thomas & Ruckle's stage road crosses Catharine Creek is located the town of Union, a thriving village of several hundred inhabitants and noted for the industry and perseverance of its citizens A large flouring mill is in process of erection at that point, and will be ready for the reception of this season's crop of wheat so soon as threshed.

The general prospects of this valley are good Its climate and other facilities for agriculture, are demonstrated to be A No 1 beyond a doubt, but before it can flourish to an extent warranted by its natural advantages it must be favored by a greater number of life time settlers We have too many transient citizens who are stopping here to make a raise and hence take no interest in the building of school houses, improvement of roads and other things equally necessary to render a country attractive and prosperous, and to make the matter still worse, a majority of those permanent settlers are old bachelors, many of whom I fear, have descended the retrogressive plane so far as to become conjugally reprobate We are not jesting, but on the contrary were never more in earnest in our lives Scores of houses in this vicinity are environed by the gloom incident to a bachelor's abode and which [illegible] of all things else, need the genial sunshine of woman's influence to dispel it. We understand that Col Crawford is on his way across the plains with one hundred and fifty marriageable women and it is to be hoped that they will all stop here and that a local regulation will be instituted to compel the bachelor part of the community to support them until they are able to contract marriages. This at a glance would appear somewhat arbitrary but when we consider that a community of bachelors are a drawback on the prosperity of the Commonwealth we must conclude that arbitrary interference, in a measure, is justifiable

Hoping that the unlaunch [illegible] every old bachelor in the land may be reconstructed and legally furnished with a necessary ornament that indispensable household article, crinoline and its consequent results, we close this communication

Before the [illegible] done so well, it would be [illegible] particular [illegible] of any pupil, and the satisfaction [illegible] was the best verdict in favor of both pupils [illegible]. At the conclusion of the [illegible] the audience [illegible] usual style, illustrating the advantages of education [illegible] the sisters for the [illegible] serving the cause of education [illegible] the [illegible].

TUNNELING ROBINSON HILL.—The Portland Water [illegible] are engaged in tunneling Robinson Hill at the head of South street, hoping thereby to secure a living spring of pure wholesome water with which to supply the city. The tunnel has entered [illegible] feet [illegible] of striking [illegible] bedrock is [illegible]. The [illegible] of this tunnel is some 200 feet above the grade of the city [illegible] above the intersection of Washington and [illegible] streets, and will afford fall sufficient to carry water [illegible] part of the city. The theory that a stream in that locality [illegible] the demand [illegible] the fact that [illegible] been flowing continually from the base of the [illegible] and has been used [illegible] to a great extent [illegible] Third Ward through pipes of a great distance [illegible] will build a large reservoir at the mouth [illegible], and from it we will get a better quality of [illegible] than ever heretofore. The Balch creek is now [illegible] wholesome water for a portion of the city, having [illegible] by the exertions of the company during [illegible] or two.

CITY SURVEYS.—Messrs. Bolton [illegible] by the Common Council [illegible] to measure [illegible] established by the city surveyor [illegible] W. Burrage, commenced at the intersection of the lines of Front and Washington streets, at a point [illegible] by the Council as the initial point [illegible] survey [illegible] found in various ways [illegible] but a slight variation [illegible] the merest fraction of an inch in most cases [illegible] in their report to the Council in pronouncing [illegible] measurements absolutely correct. The report says [illegible] with measurement of the city surveyor [illegible] small, are readily and properly attributed [illegible] using [illegible] measuring instruments than Mr. Burrage [illegible] from the report that hereafter the grades [illegible] as established will remain perpetual.

SPREADING OUT.—As an evidence that Portland is [illegible] we refer to the [illegible] who have been in the city any length of time [illegible] business [illegible] beyond the [illegible] limit of First street west, Salmon street south [illegible] north. Now a large amount of business is transacted farther out than either of the above named points [illegible] blocks, and [illegible] trading posts, so to speak, are opening up every day in the isolated spots [illegible] is a choice grocery establishment of Messrs [illegible] & Swan, at the corner of Morrison and Third [illegible]. They have selected a [illegible] location, and [illegible] keep a desirable stock of goods. As worthy men [illegible], we bespeak for them a good trade in their [illegible].

[illegible] SENATOR NESMITH.—The people of the Dalles [illegible] a gold headed cane, and [illegible] presented it to Senator Nesmith upon his return from [illegible] Indian Agency, as a tribute of their respect [illegible] received during his course as United States [illegible] from Oregon on the Mint question. The cane [illegible] is a beautiful quartz setting, and is handsomely [illegible] with the letters "To James W. Nesmith from [illegible] at the Dalles, 1865." A picture of the Mint [illegible] the head, with Newell and the long Superintendent [illegible] upon the portico, in the rear of a long [illegible] loaded with passengers and bullion en route [illegible]. We did not learn whether it—the cane—[illegible] at the Mint.

COURT.—The cases of the State of Oregon vs. [illegible], and E. A. Torrey, for assaulting John [illegible] on the night of the 19th, were [illegible] Court yesterday—the former was fined [illegible] latter $150 with costs of suit. In the case of [illegible] verdict and judgment for $[illegible] for plaintiff. In the case of D. W. Williams of Multnomah county vs. A. D. Shelby [illegible] Patterson, verdict and judgment [illegible] the sum of $500. The action against E. J. Tay[illegible] of larceny was dismissed. In the case of [illegible] vs. John Valerly, Messrs Wm. Gray, [illegible] and Levi Anderson were appointed referees, to [illegible] property.

[illegible] MADE.—Yesterday morning the contractor for [illegible] of Front street south of Morrison street [illegible] gang of 25 or 30 men commenced the long neglected [illegible] giving this city one passable street. The work [illegible] forward vigorously to a completion. All [illegible] and children who have lived and suffered [illegible] of this desirable end, who have [illegible] to see the bottom fall out of the city, and [illegible] go to [illegible], can now retire to sleep with a [illegible] for the place, as the work has been inaugurated [illegible] it may continue as we need it bad enough.

[illegible] IN DEMAND.—Gas failed [illegible] on Tuesday, about the city for a short time, [illegible] the mains of the company being taken up to [illegible] below the new grade of Front street [illegible]. At this office, at the Council Chamber and [illegible] places, candles were in active demand [illegible] time, but before they were lighted [illegible] usual quantity and purity. The company has not failed to supply a [illegible] sufficient [illegible] proper [illegible].

FOURTH OF JULY.—The various [illegible] societies of [illegible] city, as well as the [illegible] Bakers, Butchers, Brewers, Foundry men, Draymen, etc., have accepted [illegible] generally to participate in the celebration [illegible] day next. It is desired to have the procession as full as possible, and with a view to assign the different [illegible] their places in the line, all who have not [illegible] to the invitation of the Committee of Arrangements, are requested to report to Mr. Charles Hodge, at [Hodge] & Calef's Drug store.

VERY FORTUNATE ESCAPE.—The Mate of the steamer [illegible], running between the Cascades and Dalles, narrowly escaped drowning yesterday at the mouth of [illegible]. The steamer had slackened speed, and the mate [illegible] to shore in a small boat with way on [illegible] when [illegible] to the steamer the boat [illegible] was drawn under the steamer by the motion of the wheels, and the [illegible] entirely under the hull, coming up on the [illegible], where he was fortunately pulled out by the [illegible] the head, and restored.

A NEW MAGAZINE.—Barrett has laid on our table the Atlantic Monthly for June. [illegible] contains a paper from George Bancroft on [illegible] "The place Abraham Lincoln will occupy in History." We also acknowledge the receipt from Barrett of a small pamphlet, by Angel[illegible].

CORRECTION.—The new Board of Councilmen will meet at the Council Chamber this evening instead of Tuesday as was erroneously stated yesterday.

THE GREAT TRIAL.—The Bulletin's editorial correspondent makes some discriminating remarks relative to the trial of the assassins. The strength of the evidence is spoken of, and the complicity of the rebels in Canada adverted to. Jeff Davis' brutality toward our prisoners is also remarked upon:

The evidence elicited already has quite satisfied the public at large that no injustice has been done in charging the Confederate authorities with complicity in the conspiracy. The agency of Payne, Atzerodt, Mrs. Surratt and her son and Harold, is quite conclusively shown, although Mrs. Surratt does not appear much alarmed by the evidence. It is plain to be seen that she is relying for escape upon mere technicalities and quibbles that will have little influence upon a Military Commission. The presumption is also quite strong that the prisoner O'Laughlin was to have killed Gen. Grant, but no evidence has yet been adduced fastening the charge upon him. As to the complicity of the rebel authorities, even the correspondent from Washington of the Copperhead New York World declares that "it is undoubtedly true that he (Booth) has sought and obtained counsel in Canada. That Sanders and he have talked the matter over is beyond a doubt. * * * It is also proven on evidence that Booth, probably, and Surratt, certainly, have been flitting between the Confederates in Richmond and those in Canada." This being admitted, who can doubt that as the blow which killed the President was struck immediately after personal conferences between the executing agents of the conspiracy and the rebel authorities in Richmond and rebel political agents in Canada, the whole scheme was countenanced by and under the patronage and superintendence of the rebel leaders themselves. The opponents of this theory point to the low character of most of the executing agents of the conspiracy as evidence that they could not have been the associates, in any plot looking to political ends, of the leaders of the rebellion. The argument is valueless because these deeds of blood are nearly always performed by men of low character, who are hired to execute with strong hands what heads of more intelligence have plotted. Besides it was important that the chief conspirators should cover up their own tracks as far as possible—an end more easily accomplished by the selection of executing agents outside of their own circle.

No successful plea in defense of Jeff. Davis can be based upon the supposition that a man of his education could not be guilty of so base and mean a crime; for evidence accumulates that this arch rebel was directly and personally responsible for the deliberate and systematic starvation of Union prisoners in rebels hands. This is now stated by ex-Senator Henry S. Foote, who was a member of the rebel congressional committee to examine into the treatment of these prisoners. He states that the investigation brought out conclusive evidence that it was decided in rebel cabinet meeting to reduce the rations served out to Union prisoners, with the specific purpose to so weaken their constitution, in connection with their close and unhealthy confinement, as to destroy them as soldiers and make them worthless when exchanged. Is it possible to conceive anything more fiendish? Can any injustice be done to the author of such a system of brutality in supposing him competent to plot the assassination of Mr. Lincoln? These crimes are equally cowardly and equally befitting the character of the man who sought refuge from justice within the petticoats of his wife, and then whined about the want of magnanimity in the Government which "hunted down women and children."

THE WALLA WALLA LAND CASE.—The dispute about the Walla Walla land claims has been decided by the Secretary of the Interior. This decision is adverse to the claimant, E. H. Barron, and affirms that given by the Register of the Land Office at Vancouver last December. The following letter from the Interior Department to the Register at Vancouver, gives the decision in the case and explains the reasons on which it is founded. The matter is now finally at rest:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, May 4th, 1865.

Sir:—The Secretary of the Interior has examined the case wherein an appeal has been taken from your decision of December 22d, 1864, adverse to the right of Edmund H. Barron to enter under the pre-emption law, the Southwest quarter of the Southwest quarter of Section number 20, Township number 7, North of Range 36, East, Vancouver District, Washington Territory, and has decided to affirm your action.

It is not deemed necessary to decide whether or not a pre-emption right to the land could have a legal inception prior to the 11th of April 1859, inasmuch as it is clear that important Town improvements had been made upon the subdivision, and that Barron had no improvements thereon before he filed his declaratory statement.

Under these circumstances he was not authorized by law to include that tract on his pre-emption claim, though his residence had been well established upon an adjoining section.

The papers in the case are now returned.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your ob't serv't,
(Signed) W. T. OTIS,
Assistant Secretary.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

GERMAN EMIGRANTS COMING.—At Dresden, on the 26th of June commences the largest agricultural exhibition which will be held on the continent during the year, and at the same time a meeting of all the prominent agriculturalists of Germany at the same place. A letter from Dresden says of the prospects of emigration: "The harbor of Hamburg is now fuller of vessels than it has been at the same season for years, and yet there are not enough to take on board all the emigrants bound for America. The wharf here is lined with emigrants as far as the eye can reach. The war in Denmark has done much to do away with prejudice on the part of the Germans against America, because the London Times was about the only paper taken here, which contained articles relating to America, and all those articles in times past as well as at present, were unfriendly to the North. During the Danish war the London Times advocated the side of the Danes. This opened the Germans' eyes; they discarded the Times, and sent their own correspondents to America, and since then a much better feeling toward America prevails here, and the emigrants [illegible]. The news of the [illegible] better than usual. The news of the death of Lincoln reduced American securities ten percent within an hour after the dispatch was received."

CHASTE AS ICE AND PURE AS SNOW.—The Fragrant Sozodont is a scientific composition of the purest and choicest ingredients of the oriental vegetable kingdom. Every ingredient is well known to have a beneficial effect on the teeth and gums. Its embalming or antiseptic property and a delicate aromatic fragrance makes it really a toilet luxury and a pleasure to use it. As it removes all disagreeable odors, even that of tobacco. It especially removes those ravages which children sustain in their teeth owing to improper use of sweet and acid articles, which imperceptibly destroy them.

Letter from Henry S Foote to President Johnson.

M[illegible] May [illegible] 186[illegible]

To His Excellency Andrew Johnson, President [illegible]

[illegible] the day [illegible] leaving the city of New York for this place the following communication from Mr Stanton was handed me at the headquarters of Gen Dix.

Major General John A. Dix: The President [illegible] that [illegible] from Mr. Foote that his letter asking [illegible] the President to go to California [illegible] the application refused. The President [illegible] that [illegible] Mr Foote that if [illegible] United States within forty [illegible] this [illegible] will [illegible] against the Government of the United States. You will [illegible] orders [illegible] EDWIN M. STANTON

It is true, sir, that I did ask about ten days ag[o] [illegible] could whe[re], as I am [illegible] known to you [illegible] eleven [illegible] grandchildren, an only [illegible] other relatives and friends besides all I wh[illegible] [illegible] to be permitted to spend the remainder of my life in [illegible] somewhat protracted in quiet and repose after a public career marked in all its stages with turmoil, excitement and conflict. My just and reasonable application for this purpose has been [illegible] decidedly negatived and in language I must say not altogether so complaisant as a Chesterfield or Palmerston would be expected to employ on such an occasion, or as would seem in the [illegible] degree to comport with the elegant amenities supposed to prevail in high bred and refined society. Of these things I [illegible] not feel inclined to complain. If you, sir, really consider me guilty of treason, I rather marvel that I should have been graciously allowed to escape present trial by going into exile, and I have no special right to criticise the abrupt and scornful language which your War Secretary has thought it consistent with his own official dignity to use, since he is responsible in this regard to you and to the country, whose manners he is understood to represent, and not at all to myself in particular. I could scarcely have reasonably expected to be very deferentially or kindly treated by a functionary who has [illegible] lated on a late memorable occasion to fulminate Diogenesian and snubbing telegrams against a distinguished military officer (General Sherman) who had just filled the civilized world with his fame as a warrior, a statesman and philanthropist, and who had moreover secured claims to the universal admiration and esteem of enlightened and virtuous men everywhere by evincing that while more successful even than Alexander or Napoleon in the winning of military victories upon great and perilous battle fields, Cæsar himself had never displayed in grander and more imposing manner the high virtues of clemency and magnanimity towards a subdued and fallen foe.

Let me now say to you, sir, in your high official character, that whenever I shall ascertain that I shall be permitted to return to the United States and undergo trial before a jury of the country, upon any charge which it may be deemed proper to prefer against me, I shall lose no time in once more crossing the Canadian border and confronting my accusers before some of our accustomed tribunals of criminal justice.

In former and happier days, Mr President, I had the honor of serving with you in the National Congress, you being then a Representative and I a Senator. We were never upon intimate terms, nor indeed ever held familiar intercourse either socially or politically, which I suppose I must recognise as to some extent on my part a circumstance of personal ill fortune. I am gratified to remember, though, that there was at the period referred to much similitude in our general opinions and in our votes upon the floor of Congress. We both supported President Polk's Administration. We both sustained his Mexican war policy, the famous Monroe doctrine, and ably expounded in Polk's messages, and presented the sternest opposition to what was known as the Wilmot proviso. We both warmly advocated Clay's celebrated compromise measures of 1850. When, afterwards, the Kansas Nebraska bill was brought forward and then again the Lecompton Constitution bill, though not then in Congress, I opposed them both, on the ground that they were likely to lead to renewed sectional agitation. How you voted on these questions I am not precisely informed. When, in 1860, a sectional faction in the South, abetted and sustained by certain slippery and intriguing politicians of the North, succeeded in modifying the Democratic Presidential platform, giving thereby to that platform, for the first time in our history, an aggressive aspect in regard to slavery, I did not unite with them, believing and openly predicting that this movement would be fatal to the unity of the Democratic party—would separate the South most unpropitiously from her natural political allies—bring about the election of a sectional President from the North, and thus supply to the Secession leaders of the South the opportunity for which they had been so long sighing of withdrawing the slaveholding States from the Federal Union, at the hazard of one of the deadliest wars that has ever occurred.

I am pained to remember, Mr President, that you advocated the modified Democratic platform and both spoke and voted for Breckinridge and Lane, which I did not do for the reasons stated. I did not suspect you of doing these things with a view to disunion, and have never so charged. When Lincoln was ascertained to have been elected to the Presidency, you and I concurred again in asserting that being elected according to the forms of the Constitution, that event could not justify the withdrawal of the Southern States from the Union. You did not, as a Southern Senator withdraw from Congress, as others did, and I am sure you acted wisely in not doing so. When afterward, the State of South Carolina, as I thought, most indiscreetly, adopted an ordinance of secession, I openly condemned her conduct; you did likewise. When the people of Georgia called a Convention for the purpose of deciding whether they would secede, in imitation of the example of South Carolina, I earnestly urged my fellow citizens of Tennessee to send Commissioners to the place where that Convention was expected to assemble, for the purpose of solemnly protesting against such action of the Empire State of the South, as I foresaw and predicted, should it take place, would ultimately drag all the Southern States into the vortex of disunion. Those to whom I appealed saw no propriety in the movement which I proposed to them, and no such commissioners were therefore sent. No one, Mr President, knows better than you do, that the cotton States of the South had all seceded; that Virginia, North Carolina and Arkansas had followed their example; that the new Government had been formed in Montgomery and put in actual operation; that Fort Sumter had been attacked; that a bloody conflict of arms had occurred in the streets of St Louis, and that President Lincoln's proclamation calling for 75,000 soldiers had been set forth, before any considerable number of the Tennessee people were found willing to take up arms in defense of the South. To the last moment we refused to secede, and in point of fact, we never did formally adopt an ordinance of secession. It is true that we agreed to go into the war, and did go into it zealously and valiantly. And here, sir, I will make a frank admission. Had I been able at that time to read the lamented Lincoln's inaugural address by the light of subsequent events, I never should have consented to take up arms in opposition to the Federal Government. I will go further, and say that [if] I had anticipated such astounding abuses of power as have been since perpetrated by the Confederate Government, I never should have consented to assume a position of hostility to the Government established by our fathers. And when I thus declare for myself, I am sure I could make a similar declaration in behalf of nine tenths of the people of Tennessee and of the South generally. After Tennessee had concluded to assume a warlike attitude, under the painful conviction that this had become indispensable alike to her safety and her honor, I consented to occupy a seat in the Confederate Congress as one of her Representatives. I am neither ashamed nor afraid to avow all that I did and said in Richmond during the doleful three years that I struggled there to prevent the establishment of a military despotism—to suppress corruption—to bring to punishment the atrocious abusers of intrusted power, and to bring about as early as possible an honorable peace. I did not vote for a single measure calculated unduly to prolong hostilities or to heighten in the least degree the asperities of the contest. I voted and spoke in opposition to conscription, confiscation, forcible impressment, the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, the subjection of [illegible] to punishment for the entertainment of Union sentiments, the imprisonment of citizens for what was popularly called treason, and I interfered actively and at much personal responsibility to prevent the starvation and general ill treatment of Union prisoners of war. I was constantly insisting upon sending Commissioners with peace propositions to Washington, and when I found that the state of things was such that the [illegible] governments would never be able to hold [illegible] intercourse with each other for the purpose of arranging upon terms of pacification and [illegible]; in addition that before the [illegible] of May great military calamities would [illegible] which would render it almost impossible [illegible] for the South to obtain terms of settlement consistent with those principles of equality upon which the Federal Union itself had been established, I came forth from the Confederate States in open defiance of the Richmond authorities to propound a plan of pacification to President Lincoln and his Cabinet which, had it been acceded to by them, would have [illegible] almost unanimously ratified in the South, in accordance with which the States of the South would have come back at once within the folds of the Union. African slavery would have been given up on the principle of gradual emancipation [illegible] and fraternal feeling would [illegible] have been restored, and the thousands of [illegible] have been saved, and the [illegible] through which we are now passing would have been effectually precluded.

Such is a frank and explicit statement of my [illegible] conduct for the last four years in connection with that deplorable struggle of arms which is now drawing to a close. It has been my fate [illegible] to be grossly misrepresented by men of extreme views [illegible] in the North and in the South. Mercenary and profligate editors have abused and ridiculed me without stint all over the land. I have been deprived of my liberty in the South be[illegible] to a military tyranny there. I have been twice shut up in a common jail in the city of New York by command of those [illegible] in Washington because under circumstances such as I have described I united with my Southern brethren in an effort to prevent that [illegible] oppression with which we then honestly believed ourselves to be menaced. No man has ever dared to accuse me anywhere of peculation, of fraud, of servility, of selfish ambition, of trick, or of management, of insincerity, of profligacy, of intemperance, of attempted assassination, or of murder. My conscience, both in my private and public capacity, is void of offense toward God and man, and though it should be my fate never again to be allowed to revisit my native country, yet I feel in my heart of hearts, that no man [illegible] that country, and that whole country, more truly and intensely than I do; that no man more earnestly desires than I do the prosperity and happiness of the great republic which I have so long endeavored most faithfully to serve, and that no man is more solicitous than I am that liberty—constitutional liberty—liberty regulated by law and consistent with order and peace—should be the precious and enduring heritage of my countrymen in all time to come.

Sincerely wishing, that with a sturdy and elevated patriotism, with an enlightened judgment, with a soul alike free from prejudice and passion, you, Mr President, may with diligence, with a fervent and inspiring zeal, with a firm determination to do your duty to your country honestly, disinterestedly and independently, succeed in restoring the blessings of peace and concord to a bleeding and distracted land, and that you may so act in all things, at all times, and under all circumstances as to secure to yourself permanent and deserved honor, the lasting gratitude of your countrymen, and the respect and admiration of the world, I have the honor to be,

Your banished fellow citizen,
H S FOOTE

P S—I feel bound to add that I do not believe that you ever saw the Stanton letter above referred to. I leave you to decide whether you are justified in keeping me in exile. H S F

CONDITIONS OF PEACE.—R H Dana, one of the most eloquent lawyers of Boston, recently wrote the following:

"The republic must go on, as of right, I repeat it, as of right. It must not go on by the consent of any body politic. It must not go upon any terms. No matter what the terms may be—they may be a peppercorn or the tap of a drum—if it can be plausibly contended hereafter that the republic took the right to go on upon any terms the republic is dead. No rebel Legislature can be permitted to repeal its ordinance of secession. It was a nullity, and must be treated as a nullity. No Legislature or Convention can be permitted to deliberate upon bringing the State back into the Union. It was never taken out of the Union. No legislation is required—nor is the repeal of any legislation required to bring the State back. It is in the Union as of right. Every part of its soil is in and of the republic, and each of its citizens owes to the republic an allegiance—a direct and permanent allegiance—from which no State can absolve him and to which no State can restore him.

The shedding of blood we hope, we pray is over, but we can hold the rebels and their territory in the grasp of war until the object of the war is secured. The safety of the republic is the highest law. We must hold them in the grasp of war until peace exists—a peace that can be trusted to. When the civil law can run its course, when juries can be empanneled in every State, when Courts can sit in every county without military guards, when the laws of the republic are paramount in fact as well as in theory, over every foot of soil and every man, then, and not until then, does peace exist."

UNPAID LETTERS.—The new act relating to the postal laws provides that all domestic letters, except letters lawfully franked and duly certified letters of soldiers and mariners in the service of the United States, on which the postage is unpaid, shall be sent by the postmaster to the Dead Letter Office in Washington, and all letters deposited for mailing and paid only in part, shall be forwarded to their destination, charged with the unpaid rate, to be collected on delivery.

The three grades of treason none will deny are Davis, Buchanan and Breckenridge; the center figure equal in infamy with that on either side. Surely Buchanan should not be forgotten. If he is [illegible] old to hang, send him down to eternal infamy on parchment, so that for all generations his name and misdeeds may be execrated as they deserve.

[illegible] March 26, 1864
Messrs TILTON & McFARLAND
Safe Manufacturers Boston Mass
Gentlemen: From the representations made by Mr Lillie I was induced to purchase one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs [illegible]'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the cloth[ing] business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire faring however no better than ours.
Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed) GEO L CHESBORO & CO

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St Mary's, Camb. Place, Pad's Lock, Harrow road; St Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary; Charring Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicine promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of these self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are Hostlers, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, Intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid them is to make inquiry. It will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for as [illegible] are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. "Doctor" Gibbon does not advertise bogus titles, certificates, or pretended patients [illegible] Dr Gibbon will satisfy patients as to his ability to treat disease that he proposes to cure.
